

Work and Wellbeing Passport

If you would like this booklet in another format, please email the Communications Team at commsteam@kentcht.nhs.uk

Passport confidentiality agreement

The information provided in the Work and Wellbeing Passport (or 'Passport') is confidential to the employee and their line manager and should not be shared with any other party without the written consent of the employee.

A copy of the Passport should be held by both the employee and their manager.

Purpose

The purpose of the Passport is to provide a documented record of an individual's needs, which would allow them to function to their maximum capacity in a supportive environment, without prejudice or discrimination.

The Passport can be used for any member of staff who feels that they may need some additional support at work. For example: a member of staff with a disability or long term condition; those who have caring responsibilities for a relative with a disability or long term condition; parents with young children; staff who observe religious festivals or celebrations such as Ramadan or daily prayers; staff who are in the process of gender reassignment.

The Passport can be requested by the employee or offered by the employer, but is 'owned' by the employee.

Completion of the Passport is voluntary, however all employees should be offered the opportunity to complete a Passport, which can be at any point during their employment.

The Passport contains details of reasonable adjustments agreed between the employee and their line manager, ensuring that the employee able to work to their full potential within a positive and supportive environment.

The passport will need to be reviewed on an annual basis; this may be alongside the annual appraisal process. It will also be necessary to review the Passport, and the employee should be responsible for initiating a review if –

- their disability or health condition changes;
- their personal circumstances change;
- their job requirements change;
- they change post;
- there is a change to the working environment.

A formal revision should be entered and signed by the employee and their manager or new manager as appropriate on Page 2 of the Passport.

If an employee does not feel able to disclose the full nature of a disability or health condition to their line manager or 'grandparent' manager, adjustments can be identified through a consultation with occupational health, which will make appropriate recommendations on the employees' behalf. Information on referring an employee to Occupational Health can be found on the intranet.

Why complete a Passport?

This is a positive document for both employee and employer and aims to:

- Provide employees and their line managers with the basis for discussions about reasonable adjustments that may be needed.
- Ensure that both parties, the employee and the employer, have an accurate record of what has been agreed.
- Minimise the need to re-negotiate reasonable adjustments every time the employee changes jobs, is re-located, or assigned a new manager.

The Passport allows you, the employee, to:

Explain the impact of your personal circumstances on you at work.

- For example, the impact of your disability at work, your caring situation, religious observances, etc.
- Suggest adjustments that you consider will make it easier to do your job.
- Offer more information from your GP, specialist or other expert as appropriate.
- Request an assessment by Occupational Health, Access to Work or another expert.
- Review the effectiveness of adjustment/s provided.
- Explain any change to your circumstances.
- Be reassured that your manager will know what to do if you become unwell at work and who to contact if necessary.
- Know how and when your manager will keep in touch should you be absent from work due to your personal circumstances.

The Passport allows you, the line manager, to:

- Understand how your employees' circumstances might impact them at work.
- To explain the needs of the business.
- Recognise signs i.e. when your employee might be unwell and know what they would want you to do, including who you should contact for help.
- Discuss how and when to stay in touch if your employee is absent from work.
- Consider if your employee needs to be referred to Occupational Health or another adviser to help both parties understand what adjustments may be required.
- Review the effectiveness and on-going relevance of the adjustment provided on a regular basis, including the impact on the employee and the service.
- Ensure that the employee is aware of and is able to benefit from the Trust's commitment to the Two Ticks (Positive About Disabled People) accreditation.

About my personal circumstances

Please use this space to give a brief description of your personal circumstances (e.g. your disability, health condition, caring situation, religion) and, if appropriate, how long you have had a diagnosis or been in these circumstances:

Please use this space to describe the impact that your personal circumstances may have on you at work: (Guidance is available on Page 10 if needed)

Wellbeing at work

Please use this space to describe how your disability / health condition or other personal circumstances may affect you on a 'good day' or a 'bad day':

If you have a disability or health condition, please use this space to describe any symptoms which may indicate that you need help or are not well enough to remain at work*:

*If you are not well enough to remain at work and need support to get home or to medical assistance (e.g. your GP), emergency contacts can be recorded on Page 9

Reasonable adjustments

Formal assessments

Please use this space to tell us about any assessments by a trained specialist, specific to your disability / health condition or personal circumstances (e.g. Occupational Health / consultant) and dates completed:

Reasonable adjustments

Please use this space to record any reasonable adjustments that have been discussed and indicate if the adjustment has been agreed with your line manager.

If an adjustment has not been agreed, your manager should provide information on the reason for rejection. (Guidance is available on Page 11 if required):

Keeping in touch

In accordance with the Managing Attendance Policy (Section 6: Sickness Reporting Procedure), the employee is required to contact their manager as soon as possible by telephone if they are unable to attend work due to ill health.

In addition, the manager is required to keep in touch with their employee on a regular basis (a minimum of every two weeks in the case of long term absence).

A manager's contact with their employee should be carried out in a sensitive and supporting manner. If it has been identified as a reasonable adjustment that you have a carer as a named advocate, to support you when communicating with your manager, they can be named below. The form below can be used to agree how often and with whom contact may be made.

Conversations while you are away from work may include:

- How you are feeling?
- Have you been to the GP/other specialist?
- What the manger can do to help?
- Current work
- Return to work date
- Planned phased return to work
- What are you able to do?

Appendix 1: definitions, guidance and signposts

The impact personal circumstances may have on you at work (Page 5).

If you have a disability or long term condition, you may wish to consider some or all of the following when you describe the impact that your disability or long term condition has on you at work:

- Effect on co-ordination, dexterity, or mobility.
- Effect on mental health (e.g. schizophrenia, depression, stress, severe phobia, anxiety).
- Effect on hearing, speech or visual impairment.
- Learning difficulty (e.g. dyslexia) or speech impairment (e.g. stammering).
- Other physical or medical conditions (e.g. diabetes, epilepsy, arthritis, asthma, allergies, cancer, facial disfigurement, etc.).
- Ability to interact socially with colleagues.
- The effect of particular working environments (e.g. open plan offices).
- Attending medical or counselling appointments.*

What do we mean by 'disability'?

- The 'Social Model of Disability' suggests that disability occurs because of the way society is organised and that it presents numerous barriers which prevent disabled people from being properly involved in community life. This includes discriminatory attitudes, inaccessible services and information, and physical barriers, such as the design of buildings and public transport.

If your circumstances are not relating to a disability or long term condition, you may wish to consider some or all of the following when you describe the impact that your personal circumstances have on you at work:

- Receiving phone calls from the person you care for or your child's school / nursery or being called away because of an emergency
- The mental distress of knowing that the person you care for is currently unwell and the impact on your concentration at work.
- Being late for work or poor timekeeping because of your caring or parenting responsibilities.
- Needing to accompany the person you care for to medical appointments.*
- Attending medical or counselling appointments yourself.*
- Needing a quiet space / time away from your work during the day to observe daily prayers.
- Fasting during religious observances and the effect of fasting on your energy and concentration.

* Where possible appointments should be made outside of normal working hours, or at the start or end of the day. Refer to the managing attendance policy for more information.

You may wish to consider the following during discussions with your manager, when deciding on what adjustments may be required:

- Flexible Working * (e.g. flexible hours, working from home).
- Additional training.
- Specialist equipment (IT or furniture).
- Seating or desk arrangements.
- Allowing a guide or hearing dog into the workplace.
- Disabled parking space.
- Change in the nature and/or amount of responsibilities.

* KCHFT has a policy and process for applying for flexible working, available on the intranet.

Reasonable adjustments are a requirement under the Equality Act 2010, however it should be noted that it may not be possible for the organisation to provide all adjustments identified and that any adjustments identified by Occupational Health are recommendations not requirements.

Each potential adjustment should be reviewed with regard to business need / requirements and budgetary implications.

Please note that fraudulent use of the Work and Wellbeing Passport to obtain reasonable adjustments that are not required could result in disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal.

HR Policies are there to provide information for employees and managers, some of these policies are:

- Special Leave (e.g. carers leave).
- Flexible Working Policy.
- Managing Attendance Policy (including sickness reporting).
- Promotion of Psychological Wellbeing and Stress Management Policy.
- Homeworking Policy.
- Equality and Diversity.
- Facilitated Conversation and Mediation Policy.

All the above, can be found on the Human Resources page on the intranet by following the links from the home page for Policies > Human Resources
